

List 10 changes/additions you would like to make to your resume

1. I would make my summary more specific to teaching so it sounds less general and more focused on my future career as a secondary teacher. I want it to highlight my mathematics background, my education program, and the skills I have developed through practicum and work experience.
2. I would add a short section near the top that highlights my teaching strengths, such as communication, classroom management, lesson planning, organization, and relationship-building.
3. I would make sure my Bachelor of Education and practicum experience stand out more than my older jobs.
4. I would expand my practicum section by adding stronger bullet points that show what I actually did as a teacher candidate. Instead of only listing what grades I taught, I want to include things like planning lessons, supporting students, adapting instruction, and managing a classroom.
5. I would make my practicum experience more specific by including measurable details where possible, such as the number of classes I taught or the length of my practicum.
6. I would revise my work experience bullet points so they focus more on transferable skills.
7. I would expand my skills section to include more teaching-related skills instead of only general traits.
8. I would organize my experience so that the most relevant items come first. My teaching program and practicum should be placed before older jobs so my resume better reflects where I am now and where I am headed professionally.

9. I would add more detail to my education section by including relevant coursework, my mathematics specialization, and any academic achievements that support my teaching path. This would help show that I have a strong academic background.
10. I would improve the overall formatting so everything looks more consistent and polished. I want the dates, bullet points, and wording to match throughout the resume so it looks more professional and easier to read.
